

ABSTRACT

According to one embodiment, a method is disclosed. The method includes transmitting data symbols from a media access control layer (MAC) processing element to a second processor and monitoring a receive signal strength indicator (RSSI) value to 5 determine if the data symbols have been completely transmitted from a system transmitter.